The largest and most famous spa town in the Czech Republic is situated in its western part, at the confluence of rivers Ohře, Rolava and Teplá, near the Slavkov Forest Protected Landscape Area and the Hradiště military training area. The town of Karlovy Vary is situated approximately 120 km from Prague and the nearest border crossing with Germany, Boží Dar, is mere 28 km away.

Karlovy Vary (Karlovy Vary) in history

The origin of the town is tied with the traditional legend about Charles IV, who allegedly came across the hot springs during the ride through the Loket forests in the year 1350. Although some of the archaeological finds certainly indicate that this place was known long before it was discovered by Charles IV, the emergence of the town and the first settlement is attributed to him. He called this place the Warmbad (Hot baths at Loket), renamed it later to Karlovy Vary (Karlovy Vary) in 1370 and subsequently in 1370 granted this new community the urban rights.

At the end of the 16th century this emerging town was hit by a flood and at the beginning of the 17th century it was engulfed in fire, the same happened in 1759. Therefore no wonder that only a few original buildings from those times have been preserved.

A typical architectural character of Karlovy Vary (Karlovy Vary) originates in the late 19th century, when the town experienced the greatest economic prosperity thanks to the patronage of the high nobility. Magnificent buildings in the Neo-Classicism, Neo-Baroque and Neo-Renaissance style were under development. A number of construction projects had the signature of the pair of Viennese archiects Ferdinand Fellner and Hermann Helmer. We will name at least the Grandhotel Pupp, the Hot Spring Colonnade, the Imperial Spa, a theatre building, the Park Spring Colonnade, or the Goethe's Look-out.

Early 20th century has brought many changes, whether they were in the society or in the development and modernization of balneology in Karlovy Vary (Karlovy Vary). Visits for the spa treatments were no longer a matter reserved only for the nobility and the richer classes of people, but were available to all those who really needed the treatment. The town also started to adapt very fast to the needs of visitors seeking this spa town not only for treatments, but also for recreation. The first golf course in the country opened here in the year 1904, a year later there were six new tennis courts, and the horse racing tradition began at the Dvory racetrack. The annual International Film Festival, first organized in 1946 has become an important social event which enhanced the fame of Karlovy Vary.

Over the centuries Karlovy Vary has managed to build a reputation around the world and thus became an important tourist and cultural centre, sought by a number of visitors throughout the year.

Karlovy Vary = Spa and wellness

Karlovy Vary is mainly known for its spa treatments, whose essential powers come from the thermal mineral water with the healing effects, which originates in the granite bedrock at the depths of 2,000 m. The Karlovy Vary mineral water has a beneficial effect on the patients with the diseases of the digestive tract, with metabolism disorders, locomotor system diseases and periodontal disease. But people do not travel to Karlovy Vary only for treatments; they also come there for relaxation and to gather a new strength for their everyday life. A complete spa and wellness services can be enjoyed in many nursing homes and spa hotels and you can indulge in a bit of luxury while feeling relaxed and calm. In addition to the traditional mineral baths and drinking cures, Karlovy Vary offers new advanced treatments, such as cryotherapy, phototherapy, floating and more.

Karlovy Vary = The renowned products

In addition to its spa facilities and the IFF, it is also some of the Karlovy Vary products that have contributed to the international reputation of this spa town. Hardly anyone does not know the Becherovka herbal liqueur, cut glass from the Moser glassworks, Thun porcelain or the traditional spa wafers.

But if you are interested in how and where these products are created, visit the Jan Becher Museum or the Moser glassworks. Porcelain is available in numerous shops at the colonnades and the spa wafers can be tasted almost at every corner in the centre of the town.

Karlovy Vary = Culture and sport

Perhaps the entire world knows Karlovy Vary thanks to the International Film Festival, which is held there every year in early July. It is one of the most important social events in Karlovy Vary during the year and it draws a large international participation of celebrities and mainly the lovers of cinematography.

Other social, cultural and sporting events have a long tradition there also:

- May - Start of the spa season with the historic Charles IV procession
- June - Karlovy Vary Carnival
- July - The International Film Festival
- August - The City Triathlon
- September - The Karlovy Vary Folklore Festival
 - Dvořák's Autumn in Karlovy Vary (festival of classical music)
- October - Tourfilm (International festival in support of tourism)
 - Jazzfest Karlovy Vary (international festival of jazz music)

Karlovy Vary is also linked to a number of horse races and golf tournaments that have over 100 years of tradition. Whether you will come to Karlovy Vary at any time of year, you will not be suffering from the shortage of cultural and sports events.

The spa treatments in Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad) have more than 650 years of tradition. Over the centuries the treatments gained fame and popularity among many people all over the world, thanks to the beneficial effects of thermal mineral water with high content of rare and trace elements and carbon dioxide.

History of spa treatments in Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad)

According to archaeological finds, people knew the hot springs at Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad) much earlier than it is indicated in the preserved records. A gradual building of settlements in close proximity to mineral springs started after the founding of the town by Charles IV in the year 1350, which provided treatments with baths. The treatments initially involved rather drastic procedures which lasted up to 10 hours. Patients were even eating in the water, or slept there, but due to high water temperatures of thermal mineral waters many of them were unable to go through the procedure, they fainted and had to be taken out from the water prematurely. Fortunately this method of treatments was abandoned during the 16th century. That time Dr. Václav Payer from the town of Loket came up with the new idea of using Karlovy Vary water for drinking cures. True, the dosage of 6-8 litres of mineral water per day apparently failed to benefit the patients, but it formed the basis for more detailed examination of this treatment to other scientists and physicians in the 18th century. During this period the research could already be supported by the initial knowledge of the laws of physics and chemistry.

The drinking cures were perfected by Dr. David Becher, who determined the correct ratio between the drinking of mineral water and the bath time. Patients were also encouraged to diet and to take long walks. This form of therapeutic treatments is still used until today.

The promotion of the Karlovy Vary spa springs and their effects was in the care of important rulers, statesmen, poets and other artists for centuries. From the long list of distinguished visitors we will at least name the Tsar Peter the Great, the composer J. S. Bach, the Empress Maria Theresa, the German poet Friedrich Schiller, the composer L. van Beethoven, the Emperor Franz Josef I, the Brazilian Emperor Don Pedro II, the writer Jan Neruda and many more.

The most significant development in improving the provision of comprehensive spa services happened in Karlovy Vary in the 19th and 20th century. Drinking cures began to add new advanced procedures, visits to spa were no longer only a medical issue, but also a recreational issue. Likewise, the availability of spa treatments had changed also. What used to be only the matter of nobility gradually became more available to all those who needed the spa treatments.

The Karlovy Vary water

The uniqueness of Karlovy Vary water lies in its composition, which is basically the same for all the springs ($\text{Na-HCO}_3\text{SO}_4\text{Cl}$). Individual springs then differ by the quantity of rare and trace elements, temperature and carbon dioxide content.

Positive healing effects have been demonstrated during the treatment of the following diseases:

- Digestive tract diseases: some diseases of the esophagus, stomach and duodenum, intestinal functional disorders, such as habitual constipation, post-intestinal infections and the treated parasitosis, irritable bowel syndrome, inflammatory bowel disease - Crohn's disease, idiopathic proctocolitis, post-surgery intestinal conditions, stomach, gall bladder and biliary tract diseases, chronic liver and gall bladder diseases, post-acute hepatitis and toxic liver damage, chronic pancreatitis, post-acute pancreatitis conditions and post-transplant liver and pancreas conditions
- Metabolic disorders: diabetes, obesity, abnormal lipid metabolism and gout
- Motor system diseases: degenerative disorders of the spine and large joints, functional disorders of the spine
- Periodontitis: gum disease

Quellen

The basic element of Karlovy Vary spa treatments is in its drinking cures. These are served by 15 springs with thermal mineral water, which are located in the historic buildings at the spa colonnades and pavilions. The Karlovy Vary mineral water is not intended for the constant consumption or uncontrolled use. Therefore, if the drinking of this water is to have the right effect, you must follow certain basic rules:

- Follow your doctor's instructions with respect to the prescribed springs, quantity and duration of drinking.
 - Your drinking cure should be done mainly before eating.
 - Drink the mineral water from the traditional cups with the sipping spout.
 - While you are drinking, take a slow walk and consume the 2 dl cup in 3 to 10 minutes.
- Maintain a break of at least 5 to 10 minutes between individual cups.

Colonnades

Park Colonnade 1880 - kvc

GPS: N 50° 13.64662', E 12° 52.75455'

Even though the colonnade as we know it today is only a fraction of the original building from the year 1880, it is still an important example of the cast-iron architecture of the 19th century. It adorns not only the adjacent Dvořák Park, but also the entire Karlovy Vary spa area. Three therapeutic springs can be found directly under the roof of the Park Colonnade or in its vicinity – The Freedom Spring, The Park Spring and the Snake Spring

Mill Colonnade 1871-1881 - kvc

GPS: N 50° 13.51917', E 12° 52.91248'

The site of today's Mill Colonnade was covered in the 19th century by the wooden colonnade of the New Spring (today it is called the Rusalka Spring), which provided treatments for many years. The Rusalka Spring was gradually joined by four other springs: the Mill Spring, the Prince Wenceslas Spring, the Libuše Spring and the Rock Spring. These are now protected by the stone Neo-Renaissance colonnade designed by architect Josef Zitek.

Hot Spring Colonnade and Hot Spring 1969-1975

GPS: N 50° 13.36387', E 12° 53.00853'

Since the 16th century the spring and the geyser of hot mineral water was covered by many structures: the Baroque building, the Classicism colonnade, cast-iron or a temporary wooden colonnade. The next and the most recent structure surrounding the thermal spring dates from the late 1960s. This geyser yields on an average 2 000 litres of mineral water per minute. Due to its pressure the column of hot spring water can spurt to the height of up to 12 meters.

The underground spring hides a complex tangle of pipes that supply the curative mineral water to 14 various spa establishments. Underground of the Hot Spring is available for viewing to the public.

Market Colonnade 1883

GPS: N 50° 13.41145', E 12° 53.01398'

This white wooden building, built in the Swiss style was meant to cover the springs only for a few years. But since it was standing above the Market and the Charles IV Springs for more than a hundred years, the town decided for its preservation and reconstruction. Like many other buildings in Karlovy Vary, the Market Colonnade comes from the workshop of the Viennese architects Fellner and Helmer.

Castle Colonnade 1911-1913

GPS: N 50° 13.42652', E 12° 52.96663'

The Castle Colonnade can be found above the Market Colonnade. It is composed of two sections: the Upper Spring Colonnade and Lower Spring Colonnade. The Upper Spring Colonnade is freely open to the public and it covers the Upper Castle Spring. The Lower Spring Colonnade is accessible only to the clients of the Castle Spa. Its interior contains a relief of the Springs Ghost made of iron sandstone.

An interesting example of Pseudo-Rococo architecture built in the spirit of the contemporary trend of historicizing styles brings the splendour of Prague and Vienna to the palatial spa town of Karlovy Vary, and along with the unique complex of the neighbouring Grandhotel Pupp and the Imperial Spa, it forms an matchless collection distinguished by – to use Le Corbusier's words – "an identical style and elegance". The emergence of this excursion place with the observation tower is connected with the visit of Princess Stephanie, the wife of the Crown Prince Rudolf of Habsburg. She was so charmed by the view of Karlovy Vary from the Eternal Life Hill that she ordered an observation tower to be built at this place. It was opened in July of 1889 and thus became the second oldest observation tower in Karlovy Vary. The creators of this brick structure built in the Neo-Gothic style were the architects Fellner and Helmer. This 40-meter-tall cylindrical tower with battlements, from which rises yet another small turret, was built according to their design. The observation tower is currently closed

The castle expositions display numerous interesting exhibits. The castle exhibition contains many attractions. Among the most popular is the castle prison with an authentic exhibition of torture, a museum of weapons and exhibition of porcelain.

The Jáchymov Spa

The Spa town of Jáchymov can be found about 20 km away from Karlovy Vary. This is yet another major West Bohemian spa, which is proud of being able to provide a worldwide unique treatment of pains. The Jáchymov treatments are based on the baths in the radon water, which is drawn from the local mines.

Before Jáchymov became famous with its unique spa treatments, it was famous for its silver thalers which were minted here in the 16th century by the Count Šlik. The name of the Jáchymov thaler gave the name to the U.S. currency - the dollar. Three centuries later Jáchymov became famous again. Together with her husband, the Polish scientist M. C. Skłodowska was the first person to isolate the radioactive element - the radium from the local minerals.

In addition to the unique spa treatments, tourists are attracted to Jáchymov by a number of historically valuable structures, the local museum, aqua-park and the surrounding countryside. From here you can take a ride on a chairlift to the highest point of the Bohemian Krušné (Ore) Mountains - the Klínovec Mountain.

Ostrov

Ostrov lies on the route between Karlovy Vary and Jáchymov, at the foot of the Krušné (Ore) Mountains. While in Ostrov, respectively in its old section, you will find many historic buildings built in the Romanesque, Gothic and Renaissance spirit, the new part of town breathes with the socialist realism.

The greatest number of historic buildings and structures can be found around the Old Town Square and the Castle Park. The most popular sites include the newly renovated monastery complex. In its vicinity you can also visit the Eco-Centre and learn something about their exotic and household pets.

Boží Dar

The mountain village of Boží Dar can be found about 27 km away from Karlovy Vary. Going there by a car or bus, you will reach this important Krušné (Ore) Mountains tourist resort in about half an hour.

It is probably the most popular ski resort in the Krušné (Ore) Mountains. Along with the nearby Klínovec ski resort it offers the ski enthusiasts:

- 19 downhill tracks of varying difficulty, including tracks for children
- 2 Snowparks
- Snowtubing
- Snowkiting
- Tens of kilometres of groomed cross-country trails
- The ski schools for adults and children
- Sports equipment rentals
- Various refreshments
- and other essential services

The nature around Boží Dar is literally made for hiking and cycling. You can follow the marked routes to go to many observation towers, historical monuments, museums and other interesting sights. Apart from the traditional tourist routes in the vicinity of Boží Dar, you can also find a few interesting educational nature trails, including one fairytale-like trail, which is suitable especially for children.

Mariánské Lázně

The same as Karlovy Vary, the second largest spa in the Czech Republic is proud of its many mineral springs. The town is one of the points of the so-called „Spa Triangle“, which also includes Františkovy Lázně and Karlovy Vary. The spa mainly accepts patients with the diseases of kidney, urinary tract, digestive and locomotor problems, respiratory problems, skin diseases, etc.

Františkovy Lázně

The spa was founded in honour of the Emperor Franz Joseph I in the late 18th century. But the “miraculous springs” were already helping to cure diseases a few centuries earlier. Franzensbad is known for the treatment of female infertility and other female diseases. The spa is the third point of the “Spa Triangle“, which also includes Karlovy Vary and Mariánské Lázně.

This small spa town is full of quiet promenades, parks and greenery and it also has a selection of important spa monuments, especially in the Empire and Classical style.

Cheb

The King John of Luxembourg pledged the town of Cheb all civic rights in the year 1322. Thanks to its location near the border and good fortifications, Cheb became an important defence point on the Czech border. The history of Cheb is also inextricably linked with the famous commander Albrecht von Wallenstein, who repeatedly recruited his army there and at the end he was also murdered there. Thanks to a long and rich history of Cheb, we can find in this West Bohemian town many historic monuments, starting with the castle from the middle of the 12th century. The most popular sights also include the Špalíček - a set of historic town houses on the Jiřího z Poděbrad Square.

Karlovy Vary International Film Festival

The International Film Festival is the most significant event in Karlovy Vary. During one week in July the town of Karlovy Vary seems to be completely taken over by the festival atmosphere. There are crowds of people everywhere, and there are concerts, parties, ceremonies, press conferences and film showings, of course, taking place. You can see Czech and international celebrities here. Hotel Thermal is the main centre of the festival but the film showings and additional events take place across the whole town. About 200 films from all over the world which have their world or at least European premiere at the festival compete in several categories and they are assessed both by a professional and a lay jury. The best film is then awarded the festival Grand Prix – the Crystal Globe – at the ceremonial closing of the festival. There are other awards designated for the best direction, best female and male actor etc. as well. All necessary information about the Karlovy Vary International Film Festival can be found on the website www.karlovy-vary.cz or the official festival website www.kviff.com.
